

Financial Support Resources

Independent, non-profit organizations dedicated to ensuring cochlear implant and bone conduction recipients have options for affordable access to equipment are great resources for those looking for assistance. We've highlighted two organizations below that accept applications through their websites.

Cochlear Implant Awareness Foundation™

The Cochlear Implant Awareness Foundation™ is an independent non profit organization dedicated to providing cochlear implant and bone conduction equipment to those in need.

CIAF's Hear Again™ Program attempts to match eligible applicants with equipment such as processors , cables, batteries and accessories, from their inventory bank to approved applicants.

To learn more and apply:

<http://www.ciafonline.org/get-help>

Joyful Life Cochlear Implant Fund

The Joyful Life Cochlear Implant Fund is an independent non profit dedicated to ensuring all cochlear implant recipients have ongoing access to the equipment they need in order to thrive in the hearing world.

JLIF's Product Support provides replacement equipment that is critical to remain in sound such as batteries, cable coils and refurbished sound processors to approved applicants.

To learn more and apply:

<https://jlcif.org/ways-we-help/>

We do our best to keep our information up to date, however, please check with these organizations to ensure the information is the most recent.

Please seek advice from your health professional about treatments for hearing loss. Outcomes may vary, and your health professional will advise you about the factors which could affect your outcome. Always read the instructions for use. Not all products are available in all countries. Please contact your local Cochlear representative for product information.

©Cochlear Limited 2022. All rights reserved. Hear now. And always and other trademarks and registered trademarks are the property of Cochlear Limited or Cochlear Bone Anchored Solutions AB.

In addition to cochlear implant and bone conduction specific non-profits, there are additional organizations and resources available that provide financial support.

State Agencies

While the scope of services differs from state to state, the programs offered provide a variety of services. There are approximately 38 state agencies of the deaf and hard of hearing. In addition to these, there are also state offices of rehabilitation services for people with disabilities, including hearing loss.

To learn more:

<http://nasadhh.org/usa-roster/>

Hearing Loss Association of America

HLAA maintains a list of organizations offering financial assistance opportunities, some of which include cochlear implants, such as Carolina Children's Communicative Disorders Program and Travelers Protective Association.

To learn more:

<https://www.hearingloss.org/hearing-help/financial-assistance/>

Hearing Industries Association

HIA maintains a list of organizations offering financial assistance opportunities, some of which include cochlear implants and bone conduction, such as Easter Seals, Fraternal Order of the Eagle, Let Them Hear Foundation, Rienzi Foundation, Travelers Protective Association of America, Alexander Graham Bell Association for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing and First Hand Foundation.

To learn more:

https://betterhearing.org/HIA/assets/File/public/HIA_Financial-Assistance-Guide.pdf

Alexander Graham Bell Association for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing

AG Bell maintains a list of financial aid programs and organizations offering financial assistance for hearing technology.

To learn more:

<https://www.agbell.org/Connect#financial-aid>